A Powerful New Work of Fiction by the Authors of that Immensely Popular Story "The Lion and the Mouse"

THE THIRD DEGREE

A NOVEL

By Charles Klein and Arthur Hornblow

An amazing revelation of the abuses of the police system, showing in a highly dramatic manner the terrible danger to which even an innocent man is exposed if unlucky enough to become entangled in the toils of the law. How right finally triumphs, enabling a devoted wife to rescue her unfortunate husband from the very shadow of the electric chair, makes reading that, for tense and absorbing interest, scarcely has a parallel in the history of literature.

The "Ian Maclaren of Canada"

ROBERT E. KNOWLES' LATEST

The Attic Guest

12mo, cloth, net, $1.20

American and Scottish reviewers unite in proclaiming this author "the Ian Maclaren of Canada." His new story is a decided departure from his previous work. It purports to be the chronicles of a light-hearted, southern society girl. Her contact with the simple, rugged God-fearing folk of the author's Northern parish brings forth the best that Knowles has yet produced, excelling even "St. Cuthbert's" in its pathos and humor and insight.

Author of "The Web of Time," "The Undertow," "St. Cutbert's"

CONTINUING THE STORY OF "THE BISHOP'S SHADOW"

The Big Brother of Sabin St.

By Mrs. I. T. THURSTON

Illustrated, net, $1.00

Ever since "The Bishop's Shadow" came into such immediate prominence as a classic among boys' books there has been an urgent demand for more about "Tode." Full of the atmosphere of the earlier work, it will not disappoint the large number who wish to read more of this Boston street urchin who aspired to be a "shadow" of the great Bishop.

BY AUTHOR OF "POLLY PAT'S PARISH"

Introducing Corinna

By WINIFRED KIRKLAND

Illustrated, cloth, net, $1.00

Winifred Kirkland's initial work called forth an almost universal prediction that she would not be allowed to rest long upon her first laurels. No one could have created a more fascinating character, and Corinna's "innovations" captivate her readers as they captivated alike trustee, assistant principal and even the most difficult of her pupils.

MARGARET E. SANGSTER'S AUTOBIOGAPHY

From My Youth Up

Illustrated, cloth, net, $1.50

Perhaps the most fascinating narrative that Mrs. Sangster has ever given to the world is found in these vivid recollections of her useful life from her birth up to the present time.

"It is seldom one comes across a book of such appeal as Mrs. Sangster's "From My Youth Up," the story of many beautiful years. One understands, in reading it, what the influences were which have made her what she is, and how it was that she became the Mother Confessor of a whole generation of girls, as well as of older people, from one end of the land to the other; and one questions if the formative influences of to-day, with all their scientific application, are after all quite as well worth while as those of yesterday.

"In the story of the early days of the writer there is a sweetness, truth, and simplicity, and a gentle humor, that rivals that of Barrie's 'Margaret Ogilvie.' It is all as entertaining, as fresh and charming, as any romance"

N. Y. Times Saturday Review.

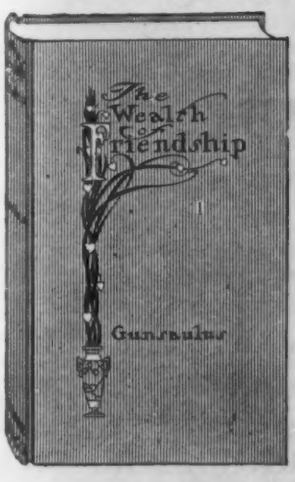
The Wealth of Friendship

With an Introductory Essay

By the Rev. Frank W. Gunsaulus



DR. GUNSAULUS, the most popular pulpit and platform lecturer in the United States, has written the introduction for the most inclusive selection of extracts regarding friendship ever brought together in a single volume. He has seen in the theme of friendship the basis of all true religion, and has stamped with his approval the work of the compilers. They in turn have exhausted English literature from the time of Queen Elizabeth to that of President Taft in order to present in the briefest possible space the views of all great writers in Great Britain and America on this most interesting topic. They have drawn extensively on the languages of continental Europe, in many cases making original translations of the sentiments of the most famous authors and poets there. Classical Greece and Rome have also yielded the treasures of their mighty antiquity, a time when friendship was most highly valued. And finally the sacred Scriptures have been diligently searched for this same high purpose. Several bits of Mr. Rice's hitherto unpublished verse have been included, leaving this the furthest reaching compilation on the finest relation between human beings ever published.

Printed in two colors on fine paper, and bound in lavender silk finish cloth, cover stamped in gold. Size 5 x 8¼ inches.

THE ROSARY

By Florence L. Barclay

Author of "The Wheel of Time," Etc.

A delightful love story, but a love story written along lines that are refreshingly novel. It is the story of a young artist, a worshipper of the beautiful, who sees shining through the features of a woman of rather plain exterior the illuminating beauty of the soul. The girl, however, realizing his devotion to the beautiful, refuses to have him make the sacrifice, rejecting his advances. How when he is blinded and needs her she becomes his nurse, and how, gaining his confidence owing to her voice, to him so reminiscent, she pleads the cause through fictitious letters of her supposedly absent self, is set forth with a charm of style that will captivate the reader.

The Nest of the Sparrowhawk

By the BARONESS ORCZY

Author of "The Scarlet Pimpernel," etc.

The picturesque castles of Oliver Cromwell's England loom over this novel; the shifting figures of dour Roundhead, brilliant cavalier and silent Quaker give it color; and the story of the winning of a beautiful heiress's hand excites our interest.

The heroine is beset by suitors of high and low degree and of many sects—some desiring her fortune, and some her comely person. Their interwoven intrigues are ingenious and have thrilling consequences, which make the story one of surprises and intensity.

A Seasonable Reminder

NO class of books displays quite the same stability of value as a good line of books for young people. "Once a favorite, always a favorite"—seems to be the motto of the boys and girls. And it is well known to the trade generally that the famous ROVER BOY SERIES, by ARTHUR M. WINFIELD, is about the most popular of them all.

The demand for these clean, wholesome, manly stories is increasing rapidly, and their sales are greater now than ever before. There's a reason. The boy who reads one wants them all, and won't be happy till he gets them.

Are you, Mr. Dealer, prepared for the demand that is bound to come in December? If not, don't delay, but send in your orders at once to your jobber or the publisher, and don't forget THE PUTNAM HALL SERIES, by the same author, and such other favorites as THE FLAG OF FREEDOM SERIES and THE FRONTIER SERIES, etc., etc. And if you want to increase your business, we have a plan that is sure to bring results. Write for it to-day. It is worth while.

BOOKS OF TRAVEL OR DESCRIPTION

THE WONDERLAND OF THE SOUTH

Mexico By William E. Carson Fully illustrated

His account of this strange land where modern America has not superseded ancient Spain, but simply moved in beside her, is one of the most vivid, lively books of recent travel. The curious medley of primitive savagery, courtly mediævalism, and commercial American life is fascinating. Cloth, illustrated from original photographs. $2.25 net; by mail, $2.39

A LAND OF UNSUSPECTED GRANDEUR

Labrador: The Country and the People
By Dr. Wilfred Grenfell and others

Dr. Grenfell is the author of the greater part of the work and it shares his attractive independent personality; special chapters round out the book into the only accurate account we possess of a country interesting not only for the grandeur of its scenery, but also for the simple, strong manliness of the people whom Dr. Grenfell has made known to us.

A NEW BOOK OF UNUSUAL IMPORTANCE

The Promise of American Life

By HERBERT CROLY

The intellectual power of this book will be unquestioned. It compares in importance only with Mr. Bryce's standard "The American Commonwealth," expressing in a brilliant style the clear thinking which gives value to his matter.

Mr. Croly examines thoroughly present economic and political conditions, reasons closely as to what may be expected in the future, and offers definite suggestions as to the directions in which improvement may be sought.

NEW BOOK OF STORIES

Sailors' Knots

Illustrated by Will Owen. $1.50

"The greatest humorist of the day."
—London Standard.

W. W. Jacobs is rapidly becoming as popular in this country as in England, where he is now considered the first of their humorists. Each of his books sells better than the one before, and in his new book he has included his twelve latest and by far his best stories, and he has never told such side-splitting tales of sailors and long-shoremen and their daughters and their wives and sweethearts.

NOTES IN SEASON.

E. P. DUTTON & Co. have an irresistibly funny little book in "A Conceited Puppy—Some Incidents in the Life of a Gay Dog," by Walter Emanuel, with pictures in color by Cecil Aldin. Every lover of dogs will want this book and its predecessor.

LOTHROP, LEE & SHEPARD have just ready, "For the Stars and Stripes," the first volume in Everett T. Tomlinson's new War for the Union Series, describing a six-days' flight from Columbia Prison to the Federal lines during the War of 1861-1865. Though written from a Northerner's point of view, the book is written in so impartial a spirit and with justice to both sides that it will also make interesting reading for those who followed the standards of the Confederacy.

FREDERICK A. STOKES COMPANY publish this week Clarence F. Underwood's "Girls of To-day," a handsome book gotten up by the author of "The Problem of Income," picturing some very pretty American girls set off by selections of appropriate verse and set before readers in 23 pages in full color, about 50 in black and white and 23 marginal decorations; and "The Nest of the Sparrowhawk," by Baroness Orczy, a story of the times of Cromwell by the author of "The Scarlet Pimpernel," telling of love and intrigue set among the conditions of those stirring times.

A. C. MCCLURG & Co. have just ready an interesting book in Joseph Mills Hanson's "The Conquest of the Missouri." Captain Grant Marsh, who brought the news of Custer's destruction to the outer world by his steamer the Far West, which played so important a part in the Little Big Horn campaign, is the living hero of "The Conquest of the Missouri." Captain Marsh first shipped on a Missouri packet in 1854, and still plies on the river. From the earliest western migrations, through the Montana gold rushes, and the Sioux wars, he was in the forefront of the white advance over the Missouri's wild territory. The services he rendered to the United States government in its various campaigns were notable, and with his other exploits have enabled his biographer to write a book that combines the authority, accuracy and fullness of a history of America most important internal advance with the adventurous story of a brave man's career on the old-time river packets.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS have just ready "American Prose Masters," by W. C. Brownell, the most important volume of American literary criticism published in many years, dealing with Cooper, Hawthorne, Poe, Henry James, Emerson and Lowell; "Landscape Painting," by Birge Harrison, lectures and talks on the subject by one of the best-known teachers and painters in the United States. which deserve the close study of every art student and lover of art; "Latter Day Problems," by J. Lawrence Laughlin, discussions on labor unions, large fortunes, bank deposits, etc., by one of the greatest and most widely known authorities; "Universities of Ancient Greece," by John W. H. Walden, an account of the lives of professors and students and of university conditions in the Roman Empire during the first five centuries Anno Domini; also, the "Memoirs of the Duchesse de Dino, 1831-1835," gossipy accounts of men and things at the English and French courts, full of witty stories and vivid sketches of famous people.

Acton, Martin W:, ["Notca W. Nitram," pseud.] Secret Bible history of Adamic innocence. Westerville, O., New Age Publishing Co., 1909. c. '08. 16+319 p. D. cl., $2.

Addams, Jane. The spirit of youth in our city streets. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. c. 162 p. D. cl., $1.25 net.

Youth, and its fundamental nobility, is here contended for by the well-known author of "Democracy and social ethics" and "Newer ideals of peace." Citing many instances which have come under her personal experience in connection with Hull House, she argues for municipal channels of amusement, the lack of which drive young people to such desperate lengths in seeking legitimate outlet for their love of fun.

Albright, Victor Eight. The Shakesperian stage. N. Y., Macmillan, 1909. 12+194 p. il. 8°, (Columbia University studies in English.) cl., *$1.50 net.

Scholarly study and investigation of the structure of a typical stage and of the general method of play production in the Elizabethan period. The material has been gathered from contemporary statements and records bearing on the stage, from drawings of interiors of Shakesperian theatres and from a critical survey of Elizabethan and pre-Elizabethan dramas.

Allen, Ja. The mastery of destiny. N. Y., Putnam, 1909. c. 7+120 p. S. bds., $1 net.

Companion volume to "Life triumphant." The aim of the book is to show the laws which govern the mental life in cause and effect, as laws govern the material world. The author shows how mastery may be gained over occurrences which have always been looked upon as unpreventable. Other books by James Allen are, "From poverty to power," "All these things added," "As a man thinketh," etc.

Allen, Mrs. Mary Wood-. Making the best of our children; 1st ser., 1 to 8 years; 2d ser., 8 to 16 years of age; ed. by Rose Wood-Allen Chapman. Chic., A. C. McClurg & Co., 1909. c. 10+254; 8+285 p. D. ea., cl., *$1 net.

A new presentation of child study in which right and wrong methods of training are illustrated. Beginning with a baby of six months the author describes the problems of methods up to sixteen years.

American foreign policy; by a diplomatist. Bost., Houghton Mifflin Co., 1909. c. 192 p. D. cl., $1.25 net.

The United States has at last been aroused to the necessity of having a sufficient navy to insure peace, but has not, apparently, awakened to the necessity of having an efficient diplomatic service as an adjunct to the navy in protecting and extending its over-sea commerce and influence abroad. The object of this book is to emphasize the need for such a service.

Archibald, Raymond Clare. Carlyle's first love, Margaret Gordon, Lady Bannerman: an account of her life, ancestry and homes; her family and friends; with 21 il., including 1 in colour. N. Y., John Lane Co., (The Bodley Head,) 1909. 16+214 p. facsim., genealogical fold. tab., O. cl., *$3.50 net.

Carlyle first met Margaret Gordon when he was teaching school in Kirkcaldy. He fell in love with her, and she returned his affection in some degree, at least. She was a most attractive and charming girl and later married Alexander Bannerman, a well-to-do merchant. Mr. Archibald has made a most exhaustive search for material concerning Lady Bannerman and this authoritative biography is the result. Bibliography (6 p.).

Arndt, Ernst Moritz. Deutsche patrioten in Ruszland zur zeit Napoleons; ed., with introd., notes, and vocabulary, by W: Arnold Colwell. Bost., Heath, 1909. c. 13+117 p. map, S. (Heath's modern language ser.) cl., 30 c.

Editor is professor of modern languages in Wofford College, Spartanburg, S. C. Book is made up of selections from Arndt's "Erinnerungen," or Recollections, and covers the period of Napoleon's wars.

Austin, Herbert H. A scamper through the Far East; including a visit to Manchurian battlefields; with il. and maps. N. Y., Longmans, Green & Co., 1909. 16+336 p. O. cl., $5.

This was indeed a "scamper," for in less than a four-months' vacation, with the assistance of the Trans-Siberian Railway, glimpses were caught between Europe, Manchuria, China, Korea, and Japan. The last Manchurian War was reviewed in visiting its battlefields, and quite a study is made of its plans of manœuvre. 20,000 miles were traversed in all, and such people as one likes to hear about were encountered en route. Maps and index.

Austin, Mrs. Mary Hunter. Lost borders. N. Y., Harper, 1909. c. 209 p. pls. D. cl., †$1.25.

The title "Lost borders" is used to indicate a country "where the boundary of soul and sense is as faint as a trail in a sand-storm." Set in the land of the far West, the chapters are episodes of the plains, and the obsessions that seize upon men's souls as they live that life, so dangerously unrestrained. The story draws with boldness the country's barren face; the white alkali flats, starved hills, arid salt lakes. In such a country the relation of men and women becomes an absorbing problem.

Bacheller, Irving Addison. The master; being in part copied from the minutes of the school for novelists; a round table of good fellows who, long since, dined every Saturday at the Sign o' the Lanthorne, on Golden Hill, in New York City. N. Y., Doubleday, Page & Co., 1909. c. 302 p. D. cl., $1.20, fixed.

The creator of "Eben Holden," "D'ri and I," etc., has written a tale of a young man in quest of a fortune left him in trust with an uncle who proves missing. Semi-bohemian literary life in New York City is described, and afterwards a camp in the wilderness. The "master" was Ben Lovel, a shoemaker, a musician, a poet, a philosopher and a gentleman who taught his brother-men the eternal values of life with wit and humor and condoning patience.

Baker, Mrs. Cornelia McGhee. The magic image from India; il. in color by Harry B. Lachman; line drawings by G: Reiter Brill. Phil., Edward Stern & Co., Inc., 1909. c. 163 p. Q. cl., $1.25, boxed.

The magic image makes all sorts of things happen to three adventurous children—a circus is unexpectedly introduced, the children's home changes into a mediæval castle, they take a trip to an enchanted island, and experience many other strange adventures during the five days that the image stays with them.

Baker, Ja. W: Reference book; 20th century bookkeeping and office practice; a treatise on modern accounting and business customs as illustrated in the "business transactions" which accompany this work; the only work of this kind in which the transactions, as well as the business papers which illustrate them, are identical with those in the business world; designed for use in all schools that teach bookkeeping. 7th ed., rev.; script il. by A. R. Burnett. Knoxville, Tenn., Southwestern Publishing Co., 1909. 10+11-183 p. form, 4°, cl., $1.

Barbour, Ralph H: The lilac girl; with il. in color by Clarence F. Underwood and decoration by E: Stratton Holloway. Phil., Lippincott, 1909. c. 237 p. O. cl., $2, boxed.

Evelyn Walton, travelling through Colorado with her father is on a train which is delayed by a slight accident at the top of a steep grade. She steps to the platform to find out the trouble and comes face to face with a young prospector, who promptly tells her he loves her, though this is their first meeting, demands her name and declares he will some day come to claim her. How he finds her five years later in a little New England village and wins her love makes a dainty idyl, all through which lilac blossoms play an important part.

Beard, A: Field. A crusade of brotherhood; a history of the American Missionary Association. Bost., Pilgrim Press, [1909.] c. 12+334 p. O. pors. cl., *$1.25 net.

The Association was started in 1846 to strengthen the missions already begun and to establish, or accept, the care of others. Its work has widened and increased year by year, making a history significant and promising.

Bell, Lilian Lida, [Mrs. Arthur Hoyt Bogue.] The concentrations of Bee; front. in col. by A. P. Button. Bost., L. C. Page & Co., 1909. c. 222 p. D. cl., $1.50.

"The Jimmies," Bee, her sister Faith, with her husband, all appear in this book which tells of Bee's activities after her extremely disagreeable husband dies. She smoothly and cleverly manipulates them all as she has always done, but concentrates on her crabbed sister-in-law Lyddy until the latter declares a truce and gives Bee her widow's third, arranges the love affair of a very nice girl and man and does some other things which are all told in a bright, witty way.

Blake, Forest. Saint Josephine. Cin., Jennings & Graham, [1909.] c. 359 p. D. cl., *$1.25 net.

St. Josephine is a girl whose mother brought her up so strictly by rules and regulations that when at the age of sixteen she meets an unprincipled young man, who asks her to run away with him, it is very easy for him to persuade her. He soon deserts her, then her mother absolutely repudiates her and she is left to struggle alone with her baby son to support. The story tells of her fight to realize her ideals for her son and their successful termination.

Bo-Peep: a treasury for the little ones. N. Y., Cassell, 1909. no paging, il. col. pls. cl., $1; bds., 75 c.

Brown, Abbie Farwell. John of the woods; il. by E. Boyd Smith. Bost., Houghton Mifflin Co., 1909. c. 189 p. D. cl., †$1.

John, or Gigi, as he was called at first, was a little tumbler with a troupe of gypsies, who treated him cruelly. He ran away to the forest, where a learned hermit found and took care of him, teaching him many things, among them a secret power over wild animals, which leads to many adventures and to the saving of the king's son.

Brown, Rev. Theron. Under the mulberry trees: a romance of the old forties. Bost.. Richard G. Badger, 1909. c. 504 p. front. D. cl., $1.50.

A Connecticut village between 1830 and 1850 gives the setting for the story, wherein the villagers, young and old, play their parts. A ruinous craze for a certain kind of mulberry tree is an important incident, while an event which stirs the calm village life is the Millerite tidal wave, the excitement caused by the good but mistaken minister, William Miller, who predicted the immediate Second Coming and end of the world.

Brownell, W: Crary. American prose masters—Cooper, Hawthorne, Emerson, Poe, Lowell, Henry James. N. Y., Scribner, 1909. c. 8+400 p. O. cl., $1.50 net.

The author of other critical books of value, "Victorian prose masters," "French traits," and "French art," Mr. Brownell, here studies the methods of Cooper, Hawthorne, Emerson, Loyell, Poe and Henry James with the same insight which he has used in his other works We see not only the strictly literary side of each man, but bits of individuality, and the setting of his life as well, which give them a human interest in addition to their fame as writers.

Marginal designs, many illustrations and a decorative box make this an attractive holiday edition.

Burton, Rev. Marion Le Roy. The problem of evil; a criticism of the Augustinian point of view. Chic., Open Court Publishing Co., 1909. c. 234 p. D. cl., $1.25.

Without the presumption of having fathomed the mystery of evil, and without formulating any doctrine of sin, this book is a scholarly criticism of the Augustinian problem of evil. Augustine's portrayal of the perfect life of pre-existence, of the pristine glory in the life of the first earthly pair, and of the perfection of the future life, as exemplified in his vision of the saints is an error due to the neglect of the idea that the highest self-realization comes through the mastery and overthrow of difficulties, and without the opportunity for such effort life loses its zest. There could be no life without progress, which implies the presence of evil. The author is president-elect of Smith's College. References, indices, and bibliography (6 p.).

Author has travelled through the length and breadth of Mexico with notebook and camera, and this book is the result of his wanderings. He gives a vivid pen picture of our sister Republic, with its strange mixture of the ancient and modern. The cities, the great haciendas, the gold and silver mines, the health resorts, mountain climbing, fishing, ranching, all are described by Mr. Carson, as well as the progress of the people, policies of President Diaz, conditions of labor and the church and the Americanization in rapid process there.

Carter, Ada. The seamless robe. Brooklyn, N. Y., A. Wessels Co., 1909 c '07. 369 p. D. cl., †$1.50.

A novel explaining the intricacies of Christian Science. A young girl on the eve of marriage has a message from the higher powers. Her lover cannot understand her for a long time, but finally he also hears the message. There are long conversations about the faith that lives wholly in the spiritual and counts all that is material a hindrance to life and love and truth. Aims to stir up all lukewarm religious organizations and point them back to the power of primitive Christianity.

For notice of v. 1 see American Catalog, 1905-'07, v. 2, '07. Each lesson is presented in the setting of a service, in which songs, prayers and story are supplemented and enforced by manual work. The object of the book is to emphasize ethical truth and give to the child a sense of the reality of Jesus. Bibliography (1 p.).

Chancellor, Louise Beecher. The players o' London: a tale of the Elizabethan smart set; decorations by Harry B. Matthews. N. Y., B. W. Dodge & Co., [1909.] c. 236 p. O. cl., *$1.75 net, boxed.

Tells the story of the first performance of "Romeo and Juliet" by the company of players who held their license from Hunsdon, Queen Elizabeth's chamberlain. The famous Will Burbage and Shakespeare were of this company. Philip Condell, who was to have played Juliet, is taken ill and his twin sister Phyllis takes his place. Shakespeare discovers the deception and falls in love with the girl. Anne Hathaway, his wife, is still living, so Phyllis and her lover part forever.. The book is daintily bound as a gift book in lavender cloth, with page decorations in the same color.

Chapman, Clowry. The law of advertising and sales; and related general business law; with which is combined Advertising and sales that develop good will. In 2 v. Denver, Colo., Clowry Chapman, [1909.] c. '03-'08. 360; 361-685 p. pls. O. bds., $10, boxed.

Author is advertising counsel; contributor to the American and English Encyclopedia of law, etc. The first part of the book was published serially in Profitable Advertising. Since then the text has been revised, very greatly enlarged, indexed and the word Sales added to the first title, "The law of advertising." The information collected here has proven practical by meeting the demands of the author's own work in agency, factory, newspaper and magazine connections. The contents are beyond the limits of present needs, but the extension of the field cannot be measured from year to year.

A perfectly authentic handbook, though enlivened by touches of humor. The charts and texts furnish an easy guide to the principal stars and constellations visible in the north temperate region.

Clarke, Helen Archibald. Longfellow's country. N. Y., Baker & Taylor Co., 1909. c. 252 p. pors. pls. O. cl., $2 net, boxed.

The author, whose studies of "Browning's Italy" and "Browning's England" have met with much appreciation, takes us now to the country which Longfellow loved and introduced into his poems. "The coast of New England" is fittingly the introductory chapter, for love of the sea breathes through many of Longfellow's poems, selections from which are given. Boston and its vicinity, Philadelphia, Nova Scotia and the country around Lake Superior which gave "Hiawatha" its setting are all introduced, and many views of the inns and other houses described by the poet are reproduced.

Book tells the collective experiences of five visits to what was at one time the Turkish Empire, but chiefly, the crowning journey of all, in which the author and a friend travelled entirely alone in Asia Minor, through the Taurus Mountains, across Mesopotamia, to Baghdad, Damascus and Egypt. Among the personal friends made among natives—Hassan, their guide and host, was the one most deeply valued as interpreter, not only through his own life, but in his intercourse with the natives. The first part of the book tells the story of his life, while the rest is devoted to "all that was learned by the way," instead of collecting information on any one subject.

"Every faculty of the mind is a sluiceway through which healing life can flow into the nature; every diversion and every pleasant sight can become a means of healing," says the author. Monotony is frequently the cause of ill health, and Mr. DeVoe points out that if we will only use all the faculties given us we will be healthier, wiser, happier human beings, and monotony will cease from claiming its many victims, because we will cease to find our lives monotonous. He says, "there lies within each person the faculties through which that person may develop the power of God within himself."

Eells, E: A mission to hell. Bost., Sherman, French & Co., 1909. c. 403 p. D. cl., *80 c. net.

Nathaniel Prester, a Presbyterian minister, saved by grace, is in heaven and is allowed to go to hell on a mission. The time is the year 2060 A.D. Many well known people are met with both in heaven and hell, and we hear of such people as General Booth, Dwight L. Moody and others who devoted themselves to their fellow men, as well as many of the world's great sinners. The world of torment with its teeming millions is vividly described, Satan himself being a conspicuous figure. The climax of the story is a triumphant struggle with the powers of evil.

The significance of battle lies not in the forces on either side, but rather in the permanent results to our country. America has been the contending ground for many nations, and it has only been by necessary wars that she has held together. The seaboard wars with the Indians, the battle for land west of the Alleghanies with the French; conflicts with England; Mexican war; the Civil War, and our Spanish war, which drove Spanish rule from the Western hemisphere, are each taken in turn. The book is a companion to Sir Edward Creasy's "Decisive Battles of the World." Index.

That peace is dependent on the force of arms seems a paradox, but a study of the world's history shows the truth of the statement. General Lee has written a book showing our unpreparedness for war and the grave possibility of a conquest of Western America by the Japanese. He points out that we are an unmilitary nation, and also a rich and arrogant one, and that wealth is not a safeguard against a determined, well-organized foreign power. Generals Adna R. Chaffe and J. P. Story both contribute introductions to the volume.

Has for its hero the poet Dante, and for its scene the Florence of the great feuds. It purports to be the translation of an Italian manuscript, long lying neglected in the library of the Abbey of Bonne Aventure. The manuscript is the fictitious narrative of a contemporary of Dante, who tells after his own fashion the great love-story of the modern world, the love-story of Dante Alighieri and Beatrice Portinari. Professes to revail a mystery hidden for centuries, and to tell a dramatic story of the "eternal passion, eternal pain" of love.

Myers, F. A. Apologies for love. Bost., Richard G. Badger, 1909. c. 401 p. D. cl.. †$1.50.

A titled villain competes with a professor for the hand of an American heiress. Through his intrigues a dark plot to right himself is concocted, and murder and adventure lurk on the outskirts of the tale. All ends well: the earl dies in a brawl, the professor and the heroine plight their troth; the curtain drops on minor characters in minor positions of a happy finale.

Newton, E. W. Music in the public schools; a manual of suggestions for teachers. Bost., Ginn, 1909. c. 6+206 p. O. cl., $1.

Music is a marked factor in the mental, physical and emotional development of the child and, therefore, a most important subject in the school curriculum. In this book the four essentials of the subject, conception of good music, voice training, sight singing, and musical interpretation, are developed side by side for each of the eight years of elementary school work by means of weekly outlines. Book is designed to be used with the "New educational music course."

Parry, Sir C: Hubert Hastings. Johann Sebastian Bach; the story of the development of a great personality. N. Y., Putnam, 1909. c. 11+584 p. pls. por. O. cl., $3.50 net.

Author is director of the Royal College of Music at Oxford. The affection and interest always given any life which has benefited another's, and a desire to know intimately of the life and times of a great man have led to the researches necessary to produce this book. As the author says, and it may be taken as the heart of his whole production: "the man whatever his greatness or pre-eminence, is the product or representative of the conditions and influences of his times, and they are the fruit of the times that went before."

Mrs. Pryor refers to herself as if she were a woman who had now straggled behind the vivid incidents of life. In this book one cannot believe it! Certainly it is full of human sympathy and anecdotes of times and customs which, regrettably, can never be revived. Many may have had the opportunity of associating with the brilliant people of their times, but there are few whose sensibilities and memories have been keenly enough alert to register them with the accuracy which is shown in this book. Mrs. Pryor has also written, "Reminiscences of peace and war," the "Mother of Washington and her times," and the "Birth of a nation."

Education is the "realization of the highest self," or the highest service any individual can offer to his environment. If, as Shakespeare says, "happy is the man who's habits are his friends," we may also add—happy are the friends of that man! Then, the important end of education is to form good habits, and this book teaches the scientific formation of habit; the method of selecting habits; conditions of making and breaking them; phases of habit formation, and the relation of habit to discipline. The author is head of the department of psychology and principles of education in the Brooklyn Training School for Teachers. Index. Bibliography (13 p.).

Author was for 25 years the British Ambassador in Vienna. He knows his subject completely. The Emperor, who is now 79, passed through all the revolutions of the end of first third of the 19th century and is still active. He came to the throne in 1848, than which no year in Europe was ever more troublesome. He is the only connecting link between the Old Régime, which stretched back to mediæval times, and the present constitutional monarchies. The final chapters discuss the present Balkan changes and the relations of Austria with Turkey.

The late Sir Henry Stanley prepared the greater part of this work, the supplementary narrative being constructed from his letters, diaries, etc., edited by his wife. The extraordinary record of his life, beginning in the workhouse, where he was cruelly treated, continuing in a hand-to-mouth existence, a voyage to America, soldier-life in the Civil War, and the African experiences which have made him famous, make a narrative that reads like fiction. His original name of John Rowlands was changed when he was adopted by Mr. Stanley, a New Orleans merchant, who brought the first happiness into the boy's life. The folding map of Africa is very valuable. Bibliography (1 p.).

This book takes up that era of Greek education which occupied the first five centuries of the Christian era. Neglecting the wars, the author considers only the social and educational aspects of the times, most interesting because while Greece politically was weak its system of education and language made the strongest bonds between diverse nations. The study is limited to the countries where the prevailing language was Greek, with a general view of its pre-historic education. Personality, which formed so large a part of the influence of Greek education, is dwelt upon. Index. Bibliography (2 p.).

Called an English "House of Mirth." It is a story of a mysterious bequest. A distinguished soldier and prominent figure in London society has died, leaving the bulk of his immense fortune not to his wife, but to an unknown woman living in Florence. Strating with this somewhat melodramatic situation the author has told a story of London life marked by pictures of the great world, a presentation at court, and all the lesser observances of fashionable society, with moving character studies, and throughout a striking plot.

The Publishers' Weekly.

FOUNDED BY F. LEYPOLDT.

NOVEMBER 6, 1909.

The editor does not hold himself responsible for the views expressed in contributed articles or communications.

All matter for advertising pages should reach this office not later than Wednesday noon, to insure insertion in the same week's issue.

Publishers are requested to furnish title-page proofs and advance information of books forthcoming, both for entry in the lists and for descriptive mention. An early copy of each book published should be forwarded, as it is of the utmost importance that the entries of books be made as promptly and as perfectly as possible. In many cases booksellers and librarians depend on the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY solely for their information. The Record of New Publications of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY is the material of the "American Catalog," and so forms the basis of trade bibliography in the United States.

"I hold every man a debtor to his profession, from the which, as men do of course seek to receive countenance and profit, so ought they of duty to endeavor themselves by way of amends to be a help and an ornament thereunto."—LORD BACON.

CATERING TO THE PUBLIC.

NOT a few retail storekeepers, especially those in small towns, suffer from the delusion that, inasmuch as their stores are the only ones of the kind in the neighborhood, all the local and nearby trade must come to them because it has nowhere else to go for its supplies. And very often many of these deluded storekeepers proceed to furnish their coveted constituents with every reason for giving their stores a wide berth and encouraging every other medium for supplying their wants. Not the least of the shortcomings of these storekeepers—booksellers and stationers among them—are the mismanagement of their business, indifference to their customers' wants and discourtesy.

Such a storekeeper buys goods that please him, regardless of the taste or wants of his customers. If he happens to be out of an article which a customer wants he doesn't worry over the matter because he thinks he can get it in time and the customer will be obliged to come back for it. Very likely he forgets the matter altogether, and then feels hurt when his disappointed customers cease calling.

A storekeeper who persists in this line will only too quickly discover that he is not the only dealer in sight. There are only too many to any given number of customers, as he is bound to find out to his sorrow. If there are no other stores in the neighborhood where the desired article—book, writing paper or whatever it may be—may be obtained, the nearest department store or catalogue house within reaching distance by mail will be found only too willing to supply it, and often supply it in shorter time than the local dealer is inclined to furnish it. If the dealer falls into the error of thinking that, because his is the only store in the neighborhood, he can afford to act as a monopolist, he will find to his loss that there are bigger monopolists who study night and day how they may gobble up their smaller competitors, and who profit as much through the indolence, indifference and ignorance of the local dealer as through their own persistent and well-directed efforts.

Retail dealers also offend against one of the most important principles of successful business when they attempt to force the public to accept what they have to sell in just the way they want to sell it, rather than to learn the wants of their constituents and sell them what they want to buy. It is within the retailer's province to advise and to educate his customers so that they may learn in time to want the things that are most satisfactory for their use; but he makes a very serious mistake when he attempts to compel his customers to take anything that they do not want, especially if they are of age and know their own minds.

IN view of the notice issued by the Post-Office Department, taking effect November 1, as recorded in THE PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for August 28, prohibiting the sending of periodicals as second class matter to others than those who pay for their subscriptions, it should be noted, as we are able to state authoritatively, that it is not intended to exclude copies sent for what are equivalent to paid subscribtions, i.e., exchanges, copies sent to regular advertisers or to prove insertion, and a free list of those who render services in exchange. Sample copies are also permitted to be sent to the extent of one-tenth the regular issue three times in the course of a given year. This explanation is made in view of a possible misunderstanding which has already raised some question among periodical publishers.

FEE FOR REGISTERING MAIL RAISED TO 10 CENTS.

BEGINNING November 1 the fee for registered mail matter throughout the United States has become 10 cents instead of 8 cents, which the Post-Office has charged for sixteen years. To this must be added the regular two-cent postage, so that the cost of a registered letter or package will hereafter be 12 cents. The order authorizing the change was signed six weeks ago by Postmaster-General Hitchcock.

It will, therefore, cost two cents more this year to send ones Christmas trinkets to out-of-town relatives and friends than in former holiday seasons, but the sender who sends a package by registered mail will have the satisfaction of knowing that if it is lost he can collect $50, instead of $25.

No action has as yet been taken on the proposal to make the registry fee 20 cents and the indemnity $100. This is simply one of several new features which have been under consideration for some time to improve both the efficiency of the Registry Department and put it on a paying basis.

STOKES TO PUBLISH PEARY'S BOOK.

COMMANDER ROBERT E. PEARY'S book on the discovery of the North Pole will be published by Frederick A. Stokes Company, and the serial will appear in Hampton's Magazine.

This arrangement is the climax—reached to-day—of one of the most remarkable series of negotiations known to the publishing world. Immediately after the news of Commander Peary's triumph reached New York, representatives of some of the most important publishers hastened to meet him. One energetic publishing man out-distanced the reporters, and was on hand at Battle Harbor to help Peary receive the representatives of the press. Members of other publishing firms met the expedition at Sydney; and as for South Harpswell, Maine—it has seen more publishers in a few weeks than in all its previous experience.

In spite of the tremendous popular excitement, the commander was not to be hurried. It was only after he had presented his scientific data to the National Geographical Society and had received its recognition, after the strictest examination, of his material by a committee of the most eminent scientists—only after such corroboration did Commander Peary care to deal with the publishing question.

Frederick A. Stokes Company, by the way, who have won the prize in this competition, are Peary's old publishers. It will be remembered that one of Peary's first personal wireless messages was to the head of this publishing house and read, "I have the Pole. Best regards." It was the Stokes Company which issued "Northward Over the Great Ice," one of the most successful and important of the explorer's writings. The Stokes Company also have published all the juvenile books written by Commander and Mrs. Peary. These books—"The Snow Baby," "Snowland Folk" and "Children of the Arctic"—have been highly successful and continue to be in great demand.

The rate of royalty paid to Commander Peary is said to be the highest ever paid by these publishers. The advance payments to be made on account of royalty are unusually large.

The book and magazine articles will be illustrated by many photographs taken by the expedition and developed in the Arctic by young Borup, the expedition's photographer. These pictures are said to be unusually fine specimens, telling more strikingly than anything that could be written the hardships and difficulties encountered on the trip.

THE UTILITY OF A "BEST SELLER."

THE anonymous author of the "Confessions of a 'Best Seller,'" in the current Atlantic, according to the New York Tribune, "surely cannot be grudged the success which he describes. It is a pretty picture that he paints of ten years profitably spent in the innocent entertainment of his contemporaries. 'No one will, I am sure,' he says, 'deny me the satisfaction I have in the reflection that I put a good deal of sincere work into those stories.' No one, we imagine, who has any common sense. The astonishing thing about the average 'best seller' is that it should be as good as it is, so full of nervous energy and so clever in its craftsmanship. Its utility is beyond argument. The truth is that this type of book would have escaped a great deal of the satire aimed at it if only more of the authors devoted to its production had written from the point of view disclosed by the Atlantic essayist. We gather that he has not taken his functions too seriously, that he does not regard himself as a great author because he has sold his books to multitudes. 'When,' he says, 'a critic somewhere gravely (it seemed, at least, to be in a fit of sobriety!) asked whether a fold of Stevenson's mantle had not wrapped itself about me, the awfulness of the thing made me ill, and I fled from felicity until my publisher had dropped the heartbreaking phrase from his advertisements. For I may be the worst living author, and at times I am convinced of it; but I hope I am not an immitigable and irreclaimable ass.' Wise 'best seller.' His fellows in the craft should ponder his candid words."

"EDITION DE LUXE" SWINDLERS CONVICTED.

THREE alleged "edition de luxe" book swindlers, said to have obtained nearly half a million dollars from prominent business men throughout the country by posing as publishers of a business directory and securing money for subscriptions and advertising space, were placed on trial October 30 in the New York Criminal Court. Two of them were found guilty by a jury in Judge McEwen's court and the other, with one of the convicted men, is still facing trial in Judge Scanlan's court.

The two men found guilty were Emmanuel Goodhart and Melville K. Kline.

The alleged book swindlers, it was said, made their headquarters in New York City and travelled around the country soliciting subscriptions and advertising for a business, which, according to the complaining witnesses, never existed. The customer would be asked to sign a contract, which was so artfully drawn that by tearing off the upper portion of the page the holder was in possession of a promissory note instead of a contract.

The London Automobile Supply Company was swindled out of a large amount of money in this manner, according to the testimony of Arthur M. Sims, vice-president of the company, and it was on his testimony that Goodhart and Kline were found guilty. The exact amount his firm lost Mr. Sims estimated at $800.

ANOTHER WARNING AGAINST THE BOGUS MR. GREENSLET OR PERRY.

Houghton Mifflin Company wish to warn their friends against a clever swindler who has been for two or three years past operating among literary people, particularly those having books upon the list of this house. His favorite story is that he is Ferris Greenslet, or Mr. Greenslet's brother; Bliss Perry, or Mr. Perry's nephew. Usually he exhibits a draft which through some technicality he is unable to have cashed, and asks for a small loan to enable his sister and himself to finish some journey that they are upon. He is described as of medium height and complexion, of pleasant address and great affability, and as possessing minute special knowledge of matters connected with Houghton Mifflin Company and their books.

As the wide newspaper publicity which has been given to this man's operations has proved ineffective in guarding their authors against him, Houghton Mifflin Company reiterate the warning and ask for co-operation in bringing him to justice.

Although Mr. Greenslet and Mr. Perry and their alleged relatives are among his favorite impersonations, he has been known to operate as a kinsman of Richard Watson Gilder, Owen Wister, Roy Rolfe Gilson, E. S. Martin, and other well-known men of letters.

BUSINESS NOTES.

Chicago, Ill.—The Chicago Medical Book Company, Congress and Honore Streets, have purchased the business of W. T. Keener & Co., and have taken over all of their publications, which they will hereafter carry on their own list.

New York City.—William J. Taylor has just relinquished charge of the rare book department at Henry Malkan's to open up business for himself at 59 Broad Street. Mr. Taylor's connections with the rare-book trade in England and here during the past twenty years should stand him in good stead in his new venture.

Rockland, Me.—The Huston-Tuttle Book Co., incorporated under the laws of Maine, has been formed to take over the business formerly conducted under the title of Huston's Book Store. The officers are A. J. Huston, president; C. E. Tuttle, treasurer and manager; E. B. MacAllister, secretary of the Corporation; and Edna T. Watts, clerk. The old-book business, publishing business, and Maine law book business will be conducted as a separate business under the name of A. J. Huston.

Springfield, Mass.—Edward B. Eaton, of Hartford, Conn., owner of the Brady collection of original photographs of the prominent personages of the war period, 1861 to 1865, has completed negotiations which will result in the establishment in this city of a new and interesting publishing business to be called The Patriot Publishing Company. The company has been organized under the laws of Massachusetts, with capital stock of $75,000. Herbert Myrick, president of the Phelps Publishing Company, who organized the new concern, is president, and J. Frank Drake, secretary of the Phelps Company, treasurer. Edward B. Eaton, of Hartford, who has owned the Brady collection, is vice-president, and will come to this city to be general manager of the new enterprise. The board of directors, besides the above three, will include Harcourt W. Bull. What the Patriot Company plans to do has not yet been outlined, but work has already been started on a new Lincoln book, which will contain a large number of Lincoln photographs, many of which have never been published. The book will be edited by Dr. Francis Trevelyan Miller, editor of the Journal of American History, and it is stated that the book will be an unusually fine production.

LITERARY AND TRADE NOTES.

Henry C. Lea bequeathed to the University of Pennsylvania his immense library, said to include many rare and priceless volumes and manuscripts.

His many friends will regret to hear of the sudden death of the wife of John Cook, of G. W. Dillingham Company. We extend to him the sympathy of the trade in his affliction.

W. B. Parker, who has had a large and varied publishing experience at the Houghton Mifflin Company, Doubleday, Page & Co., and elsewhere, has taken charge of the publishing department of the Baker & Taylor Company, succeeding E. Byrne Hackett.

Charles A. Ditmars, 350 Fulton street, Brooklyn, N. Y., has in press his new work, "Historic Homesteads of Kings County, N. Y.," giving twenty sketches of the old homesteads in Kings County and a genealogical review of the people who lived in them and their descendants.

Doubleday, Page & Company have just ready "Accounting Every Business Man Know," laying bare the whole modern system of accounting from foundation to summit; and Hilaire Belloc's biography of "Marie Antoinette," written from the latest historic revelations and from a modern standpoint.

HENRY ALTEMUS COMPANY will publish at once a book for young people, entitled "Elfie and the Arkansaw Bear," by Albert Bigelow Paine, and illustrations by Frank Verbeck, which tells of the adventures of the girl hero with the bear of the juvenile classic, "The Arkansaw Bear," by the same author and artist, published some time ago.

GERMAN post-card manufacturers, apprehensive that the new American tariff will greatly reduce their output of cards are contemplating transferring their plants to this country, or establish branches here. Joseph Keller, of the firm of Stengel & Co., of Dresden, is already in this country to look over possible sites for a factory.

J. B. LIPPINCOTT COMPANY have just issued, in good time for the Christmas season, a specially illustrated holiday gift edition of Irving's "Legend of the Alhambra." There are seven large reproductions in full color from paintings by George W. Hood, and marginal decorations, lining papers, and a cover design in three colors and gold by the same artist.

J. F. MEEHAN, the well-known bookseller of Bath, Eng., author of "The Famous Houses of Bath and District," etc., has in the current number of The Bath Beacon an interesting illustrated article on "Dr. Oliver Goldsmith and His Bath Associations." The article, while retelling in a new form matter within the knowledge of the regular reader, gives to its subject fresh "local color."

HOUGHTON MIFFLIN CO. have been obliged to postpone from November 6th to the 10th the publication of the following books: "Old Harbor," by W. J. Hopkins; "Travels in Spain," by Philip S. Marden; "Why American Marriages Fail," by Anna A. Rogers; "The Expansion of New England," by Lois K. Mathews; and "The Piper" and "Fortune and Men's Eyes," by Josephine Preston Peabody.

E. P. DUTTON & COMPANY have just ready Mary Raymond Shipman Andrew's first story for children, called "The Enchanted Forest," with colored and black and white illustrations by E. Boyd Smith. The result is a charming book of fairy lore that will have such unquestioned success that the author may be tempted to devote herself wholly to the children, which would be cause of regret to their elders.

THE DOVES PRESS, London, will bring out shortly "William Caxton," a paper read by George Parker Winship, librarian of the John Carter Brown Library, Providence, R. I., at a meeting of the Club of Odd Volumes in Boston, in February, 1908. The three hundred copies to be issued will be bound in boards, paper sides and vellum backs at 10*s.*; or in morocco or sealskin at £2 10*s.* There will also be fifteen copies on vellum.

SHERMAN, FRENCH & CO., Boston will publish shortly "A-Roving He Would Go: from the Southern Cross to the Arctic Circle," by Milton Reed, the author of "The Democratic Ideal" and "The Sea of Faith." Mr. Reed, who is a Fall River lawyer, spent the spring and summer of this year in visiting Hawaii, Japan, Korea, China, Manchuria, Liberia, Russia, Scandinavia, Germany, Austria, Greece and Egypt, and made an informal record of his impressions and observations.

IN the issue of the PUBLISHERS' WEEKLY for October 30 (page 1183) in our account of the change of name of the Statute Law Book Company, we may inadvertently have conveyed the impression that the F. H. Thomas Law Book Company went out of existence in 1893, when, in fact, they are still doing a prosperous business. The F. H. Thomas Law Book Company gave up their session law department in 1895, but continued their general law book business, which is still conducted at St. Louis.

W. A. WILDE & CO., have just ready a book entitled "The Teaching of Citizenship," by Dr. Edwin Holt Hughes, the youngest bishop of the Methodist Episcopal Church, stationed in California. The book was written with the purpose of suggesting some starting points for the teaching of patriotism and citizenship, and aiming to show that every teacher may aid in making a wholesome civic atmosphere, although his field of teaching may lie apart from the subjects classed as "civics," or allied to civics.

The name of Margaret Anglin has been attached to a new edition which the Harpers have prepared of Mrs. Deland's most popular novel, "The wakening of Helena Richie," now enjoying such success as a play. The Margaret Anglin edition, besides having many illustrations showing scenes from the play, contains as a frontispiece an even more than commonly attractive portrait of Miss Anglin, who plays the part of Helena. The cover of the new book also is especially decorative.

A MOST attractive series of little books, either to keep for one's self or to give to a friend, is issued by the Dodge Publishing Company, New York, under the name of The Acorn Series, taking its name from the all-over cover design of gold acorns in gold stamping. There are thirty titles in the series, including such well-known books as Halévy's "Abbé Constantin," Mrs. Gaskell's "Cranford," Longfellow's "Evangeline," Lord Chesterfield's Letters, Irving's "Old Christmas," "The Rubáiyát," some of Emerson's best essays, and many others. The size is convenient—4½ x 6—and the form and appearance very dainty.

A. WESSELS will publish at once a volume by Dr. John H. Clarke, entitled "Vital Economy, or, How to Conserve Your Strength." Dr. Clarke has penned useful protests against excesses in a number of directions. He attacks that Englishman's idol, "the daily tub," and shows that fresh air is not a panacea and should not be thrust on everybody. He believes that the question of exercise is very much overdone, and when, for example, we are engrossed in absorbing mental work, we best conserve our energies by cutting down physical exertion to the minimum. There are a number of other well-made points in these essays which it will pay everyone to make their own.

Two hundred years ago—October 29, 1709—the convent of Port Royal was finally suppressed. Miss M. E. Lowndes has written a volume, which Henry Frowde, of the Oxford University Press, will publish immediately, entitled "The Nuns of Port Royal, as seen in their own narratives." These narratives have an almost modern ring. The author points out that certain figures—a S. Theresa or S. Catherine—are clouded to our understanding by a veil of mysticism, but those of the seventeenth century are depicted with the clear-sightedness of a highly analytic, semi-rationalizing epoch, and appear before us, not as saints, but as very human women. The volume contains a number of illustrations.

MITCHELL KENNERLEY will publish at once a novel by the late Clyde Fitch, entitled "A Wave of Life." This is the only novel credited to Mr. Fitch, and was written as long ago as 1891. It is said to be largely autobiographical in character, and portrays some of Mr. Fitch's early experiences in the literary life which he chose to follow. The scenes of the story are laid in New York, and many of the lines and bits of dialogue are said to be typical of the dramatist's gift for cleverness in repartee. Mr. Kennerley has also just ready Antonio Scarfoglio's book, "Round the World in a Motor Car." This is Signor Scarfoglio's account of the long and arduous New York to Paris motor race, which was run last year. The book, which is uniform in style with Barzini's "Peking to Paris," contains sixty or more illustrations and gives a complete record of the tour.

JOHN LANE COMPANY publish this week an interesting work on "Madame de Maintenon," by C. C. Dyson, who, in the preface to his book says that having weighed the evidence for and against disputed points he has extracted from the mass of superfluous matter the leading traits of Madam de Maintenon's character and the most interesting episodes of her life. Mr. Dyson gives a particularly interesting account of Madame de Maintenon's great work, the school of Saint Cyr. They have also just ready a book entitled, "Maria Edgworth and Her Circle in the Days of Bonaparte and Bourbon." The book contains many interesting personal anecdotes of the most interesting people in France at the time of Napoleon and later, in 1820, when Miss Edgeworth paid a second visit to Paris. English contemporaries of Miss Edgeworth are by no means neglected.

"THE GREAT ENGLISH ESSAYISTS," about to be published by Harper & Brothers, is the second in the series known as The Readers' Library, of which the two first published volumes were "The Great English Letter Writers." In the new volume, the editors, William T. and Coningsby W. Dawson, have followed their plan of a prefatory chapter, and successive introductory chapters which trace the genesis of the essay and describe its various forms of development, such as the classic, the familiar, the short story, the biographical essay, and so forth. The main bulk of the text, however, consists of extracts from the recognized English masters of these forms—Bacon, Milton, Johnson, Lamb, Hazlitt, Thackeray, Stevenson, and a score of others. It may thus be inferred that apart from the educative value attaching to such a book, there will be contained in it some of the most entertaining prose ever written in English.

THE REID PUBLISHING COMPANY, Boston, call attention to three books that will appeal to readers of various types. "The Peacemakers," by Hiram W. Hayes, opens with the doings of the diplomatic corps amidst the stormy and tumultuous events of the Boxer rebellion in China. When all were thinking of war the scene shifts quickly to the United States and the national capital. The reader is then led through a most trying period of national development, when thoughts of war were ripe, into a time when thoughts of peace became paramount and national harmony was assured. The second book, "Little Prince Charming," by Elizabeth von Zicklen, is a story which exemplifies the teaching of Christian Science as applied to the daily living of a little boy who radiated sunshine wherever he went. "Little Barley," by M. Alma Kolbe, is a beautiful story of a little lamb written expressly for the little girls and boys just learning to read. All three books are illustrated.

CHARLES SCRIBNER'S SONS bring out this week Henry van Dyke's new book of poems, "The White Bees," which comprises the poems written during the last five years, including "Songs of America," "In Praise of "Poets," etc.; "Sailors' Knots," by W. W. Jacobs, originally announced as "Sea Breeze," which holds twelve of Mr. Jacobs's best stories of sailors and longshoremen and their wives and daughters and sweethearts, with illustrations by Will Owen; "Life Histories of Northern Animals," by Ernest Thompson Seton, an elaborate and important work dealing with sixty quadrupeds, such as moose, caribou, antelope, buffalo, etc., giving a complete description of their appearance, habits and the general account of their lives, etc., with maps, drawings, etc., which are said to be astonishing in their comprehensive variety; also, a beautiful illustrated edition of Maurice Hewlett's "The Forest Lovers," the great romance of the Middle Ages that first established the author's reputation.

B. W. DODGE & CO. have just brought out in book form Homer Davenport's account of his search in the wilds of Arabia in "Quest of the Arabian Horse." In this volume, which is not without some specimens of its author's handiwork as a cartoonist, Mr. Davenport gives an account of the difficulties and triumphs that fell to his list of experiences in the Syrian desert, and is naturally rich in descriptions of the breeds and various pedigrees of the horses found there. Two other books just put on their list are "The Players of London," by Louise Beecher Chancellor, and "In Lockerbie Street," by Mabel Potter Daggett. The latter, as its subtitle states, is a "Little Appreciation of James Whitcomb Riley," furnished with a number of photogravure illustrations. Miss Chancellor's work is a "Tale of an Elizabethan Smart Set," in which Lord Hunsdon's players, with Shakespeare and Burbage at their head, furnish the leading characters. The volume is furnished with elaborate decorations by Harry B. Matthews.

THE BAKER & TAYLOR COMPANY have just brought out an attractive contribution to literature about Longfellow, entitled "Longfellow's Country," by Helen A. Clarke. The volume is very fully illustrated and is uniform in binding and general appearance with "Browning's England" and "Browning in Italy." They have also just ready a new novel by Roy Rolfe Gilson, "The Wistful Years," described as "a prose idyll of love and marriage," and said to be couched in the same vein of ideal sentiment as the author's "Katrina" in "In the Morning Glow;" "The Lady Nurse of Ward E." by Mrs. A. A. Stearns, a transcript of a diary kept by the author while she was a nurse in 1863-64 at the Armory Square Hospital in Washington, full of reminiscences of the war as its echoes drifted into the ward rooms of the army hospitals, with interesting pictures of Lincoln, who was particularly interested in the institution where Mrs. Stearns prosecuted her labors; also, "A Child's Guide to Music," by Daniel Gregory Mason, in the series of Child's Guides. Its author, a pianist of distinction, has written in the same field "From Grieg to Brahms" and "The Appreciation of Music."

THE AMERICAN BAPTIST PUBLICATION SOCIETY are publishing under the auspices of the Social Service Commission of the Northern Baptist Convention a series of essays of which the distinguishing catchword is "The Interest of Each is the Concern of All." Of this series two numbers have already appeared—"A Reasonable Social Policy for Christian People," by Charles R. Henderson, and "Ethical and Religious Significance of the State," by James Quale Dealey. The additional numbers, which are to be ready in December, will include "The Child in the Home," by Professor A. L. McCrimmon, of McMaster University; "The City, as It Is and as It Is to Be," by Clinton Rogers Woodruff, secretary of the National Municipal League, a member of the Registration Commission of Philadelphia, and one of the foremost of American workers for civic improvement; "The Social Mission of the Church," by the Rev. A. W. Wishart, and "A Working Temperance Programme," by the Rev. S. Z. Batten. They have nearly ready a volume of sermons or addresses by the Rev. D. A. S. Hobart upon "The Tillage of the Heart." These addresses were delivered in Calvary Baptist Church, Washington, in the summer of the present year.

DODGE PUBLISHING COMPANY, New York, are issuing a series of books designed to include all that is best in child literature, drawn from all sources. The two volumes now ready are "Poems Children Love," compiled and edited by Penryn W. Coussens, and "Stories Children Love," by Charles Welsh. The plan upon which both of these books are arranged is the same, that is, to present selection upon a gradually ascending scale, with reference to the age and understanding of the young readers, beginning with the kindergarten period, and advancing in subject and treatment through the primary school age up to the maturer years of the high school. They embrace a great variety in form and subject, including some new friends with old favorites, and furnish a full storehouse upon which to draw for the entertainment of children of all ages. The poems run from "Twinkle, Twinkle, Little Star" and "The Moo-Cow-Moo," to "The Bells" and "The Yarn of the Nancy Bell," and the stories from "The Babes in the Wood," "Ali Baba" and Sinbad," to Baron Munchausen and Rip Van Winkle. The volumes already issued will be followed by three other titles —"New Testament Stories Children Love," "Fairy Tales Children Love" and "Heroes and Heroines Children Love," which are now in preparation.

GENERAL A. W. GREELY'S "Handbook of Polar Discoveries," an authoritative resumé of polar explorations from the earliest voyages, has just been thoroughly revised, and the new edition announced for immediate publication by Little, Brown & Company, includes the latest discoveries by Cook, Peary and Shackleton. Written by one who has himself attained distinction as an explorer in the far North, this handbook has long been the standard work on the subject. In this new edition there has been added an excellent colored map of the Arctic regions that gives accurate information, and there are new chapters on "The Conquest of the North Pole" and "The South Pole Quest." General Greely considers dispassionately the claims of Cook and Peary. With portraits, maps and bibliographical index. "A Journey in Southern Siberia," the last work of the late Jeremiah Curtin, is published to-day, which completes the list of Mr. Curtin's original works. The new book describes a journey through the smaller and out-of-the-way places in Southern Siberia taken by the author for the purpose of collecting the primitive folk-loke and myth-tales of the Mongols, and is a valuable and hardly-earned contribution to the history of this people, which interested Mr. Curtin so greatly. Two previous volumes about the same race are "The Mongols" and "The Mongols in Russia."

A. C. MCCLURG & CO. will publish at once three volumes, each one of which will be a distinct addition to the literature of the political and social history of the United States. The first of these is a volume entitled

"Stephen A. Douglas—his Life, Public Service, Patriotism and Speeches," by Clark E. Carr, ex-Minister to Denmark, author of "The Illini," etc. This study of Douglas, written from the standpoint of personal association and after long reflection and deep study, by so eminent an authority as Clark E. Carr, will take its place as the definitive work on the statesman. The second volume is entitled "Something of Men I Have Known," by Adlai E. Stevenson, ex-Vice-President of the United States, which as a record of men and events, extending as it does over the greater part of the development of the United States into a world power, throwing much new light on the greatest personalities of the American political drama, is of prime historical importance. The third volume, entitled "Cyrus Hall McCormick, his Life and Work," is a sketch of the remarkable life of the inventor of the reaper, written by Herbert N. Casson, author of "The Romance of the Wheat," etc. McCormick emancipated the American farmer from the slavery of the soil and made him the master of the wheat instead of its servant, and Mr. Casson's account of the struggles by which this was accomplished will take its place as the record, not of a man's life merely, but of the greater part of a nation's history. Each volume is adequately illustrated, in large part from contemporary sources.

Oliver Ditson Company, Boston, have just brought out in their splendid Musician's Library series the first volume of "Piano Compositions by Ludwig Van Beethoven," edited by Eugen d'Albert. The volume contains five sonatas—the third, in C major; the eighth, in C-minor (Sonata Pathétique;) the twelfth, in A-flat major; the fourteenth, in C-sharp minor (Sonata quasi una Fantasia;) the eighteenth, in E-flat major and seven Bagatelles. The musical text is prefaced by a description, in English and German, of the pieces included by d'Albert, translated by Charles Fonteyn Manney, a bibliography of the works and writings on Beethoven in English, French and German, and a fine portrait of Beethoven. The Musician's Library now includes fifty volumes of the masterpieces of song and piano music, each edited by an authority. Mechanically the volumes are as perfect as typography, engraving, paper, printing and binding can make them, and all are at extremely low price. They have just published a volume entitled "The Essentials of Pianoforte Playing," by Clayton Johns, one of the leading musicians of Boston. The subtitle to the book, "A Practical System of Mind and Finger Training," clearly describes the contents and the aim of the book. The first sections are devoted to a study of the scales, triads, arpeggios, etc., theoretically and practically, at the piano. Then follow sections on musical form, how to practice, phrasing, the pedal and practical illustrations, such as the analysis and playing of a sonatina, with its various movements and polyphonic music.

G. P. Putnam's Sons have just ready, "The Life and Letters of Susan Warner," by her sister, Anna B. Warner, who presents a vivid picture of a woman who united with firmness of purpose sweetness of nature and a charming sense of humor. Susan Warner, who sixty years ago was doing literary work under her pen name of "Elizabeth Wetherell," is best known in connection with her first book, "The Wide, Wide World." The original edition was published by the late George Palmer Putnam in the early fifties, and it is one of the few volumes of American fiction which has retained its hold upon the reading public for more than half a century. They have also just brought out "San Celestino," by John Ayscough, a dramatic portrayal of the life of Petruccio, the founder of the Celestine order; "Heavenly Heretics," a collection of addresses by the Rev. Lyman P. Powell, on such representative preachers as Jonathan Edwards, John Wesley, William Ellery Channing, Horace Bushnell and Phillips Brooks, who impressed the author as having had a larger outlook on life than had been secured by their contemporaries; also, a critical as well as a biographical study of "Johann Sebastian Bach," by Sir Hubert Parry, who gives a graphic picture of the unique artistic personality of the great eighteenth century composer, director and performer upon the organ and piano, and a comprehensive, but not unduly expanded, survey of his life work. They will publish next week a live story of exceptional charm by Mrs. Florence L. Barclay, a sister of Maud Ballington Booth, entitled, "The Rosary," which deals with a theme as old as humanity; also, another novel, entitled, "The Master of Destiny," by James Allen, author of "As a Man Thinketh," which has for its keynote the sentiment, "For man is man and master of his fate.

Dodd, Mead & Co. have just ready a sumptuous budget of books, including most of those prepared especially for the holiday shopper. Among these are "Their Hearts' Desire," by Frances Foster Perry, a charming story full of the real holiday spirit, with fine pictures by Harrison Fisher, reproduced in colors; three volumes in the Masterpieces of Handicraft on "Chinese Porcelains," "Old Bow Porcelains" and "Sevres Porcelain," all edited by T. Leman Hare, and equipped with illustrations in colors and black and white; Pater's "The Child in the House," W. B. Yeat's "The Land of Heart's Desire" and "A Wreath of Christmas Verse," three artistic substitutes for the conventional greeting card; "The Cathedral Cities of Spain," by W. W. Collins, with sixty full-page illustrations in colors; "Beautiful Children," by C. Haldane McFall, with fifty illustrations, printed in four colors, reproduced direct from paintings of the old masters; also a work on "Portugal—Its Land and People," by W. H. Koebel, with illustrations in color and halftone. Besides these they have brought out "Intimate Recollections of Joseph Jefferson," by Eugenie Paul Jefferson, who for years was in close touch with her distinguished relative, illustrated with a number of unknown portraits; "Introductions to Notable Poems," masterpieces of English poetry selected and introduced to the reader with accompanying essays by Hamilton Wright Mabie; "Some Wonders of Biology," by Dr. William Hanna Thomson, author of "Brain and Personality," etc., who, in a most interesting manner deals with the latest results of scientific research along biological lines; Gilbert K. Chesterton's new book of essays, "Tremendous Trifles;" also "A Guide to Modern Opera," by Esther Singleton, which gives full information of all the latest operas, including "Salome," "Thaïs," etc.

THE MACMILLAN COMPANY have just ready a new book by Jane Addams, of Hull House, Chicago, entitled "The Spirit of Youth and the City Streets," in which the author deals with the great problem in philanthropic work —how to keep boys and girls off the streets; a new volume of reminiscences by Mrs. Roger A. Pryor, entitled "My Day—Reminiscences of a Long Life," which is more comprehensive in its scope than the former collection of memories, "Reminiscences of Peace and War," which, as it title indicates, dealt primarily with the war between the states; "My Day" passes rather hurriedly over four years of suffering and hardship, but includes a most interesting account of the latter part of Mrs. Pryor's wonderful career; "The Promise of American Life," by Herbert Croly, a profound study of present conditions in this country, an analysis of tendencies with a fund of suggestions for improvement in the future; "The Temple," by Dr. Lyman Abbott, a characteristically sane and generous discussion of spiritual life as conditioned by its relations with the body; also, an attractive book describing "Mexico," by William E. Carson, with a number of illustrations. They will bring out shortly Dr. Sven Hedin's new book, "Trans-Himalaya," probably the most important record of adventurous travel published in a decade. The work will be in two volumes, with eight plates in colors and about four hundred other illustrations, maps, etc. They will bring out shortly "A Book of Operas," by Henry E. Krehbiel, who gives all that one needs to know of the stories of the operas and the individuality of their music, together with personal anecdotes of the singers who interpreted them. They promise for December Dr. Henry van Dyke's new book, "The Spirit of America," the result of the special study in which, before his Sarbonne lectures, he set in orderly form his lifetime, observations and reflections.

HARPER & BROTHERS have just ready a work on "Equal Suffrage in Colorado," by Helen H. Sumner, Ph.D., which is the result of an investigation occupying two years, made for the Collegiate Equal Suffrage League of New York State. The book will contain extensive tables of statistics, a comparison of evidence, and a complete statement of results. They have also just brought out, "A Hunter's Camp Fires," by Edward J. House, a sportsman's record "from the arctic to the equator," illustrated from photographs taken by the author and a companion, together with maps and charts of the regions traversed. The hunting grounds described are in New Brunswick, Newfoundland, British Columbia, our Western States, and East Africa. They will bring out later in the month a promising new novel called "The Image of Eve," by Margaret Sutton Briscoe, in private life, Mrs. Hopkins, the wife of Professor Hopkins, of Amherst College. Although a New Englander by residence, by birth, Mrs. Hopkins is a Baltimorean, whose stories have been familiar to magazine readers since she first began to write as a very young girl some twenty years ago. "The Image of Eve," her new novel, was called by one reader of the manuscript a kind of reversed "Dolly Dialogues," possibly because of the three-cornered presence in it of a charming matron, a friendly bachelor, and a sensible husband. Another book to be brought out is Dr. Henry C. McCook's "Ant Communities," which will discover parallels between the communal actions of ants and those of men, each in relation to the welfare of the type—the acts of establishing a home and livelihood, the protection from enemies, nurture of the young, perpetuation of the species, etc. Dr. McCook's work represents a long summary of painstaking observation extending over thirty-two years. It is made still more effective by reference to the work of some of the leading naturalists of the scientific world, and drawings, index, and full tables of authors and references, etc., have been attached.

FUNK & WAGNALLS COMPANY have just ready "The Best of the World's Classics," ten volumes containing over 500 of the best prose writings of more than 200 of the world's best authors, selected by Henry Cabot Lodge. Senator Lodge, who has been designated "the scholar in politics," states in his introduction to the work that he has attempted to "give examples from all periods and languages of western civilization of what is best and most memorable in their prose literature." The work is arranged chronologically by countries beginning with Greece, and thus taking up Rome, Great Britain, Continental Europe and America. In connection with Dr, Eliot's selection of a "five-foot shelf of books, a reading of which would mean a liberal education," it is interesting to note that although Senator Lodge was making his collection long before Dr. Eliot's work was announced, and while he has excluded poetry, all the prose selections included in Dr. Eliot's list, excepting William Penn and the much-discussed John Woolman, are to be found in this ten-volume set of books compiled by Senator Lodge. In the preparation of the work, which includes suitable biographical and explanatory matter, Senator Lodge has been associated with Francis W. Halsey. They have also just ready an important work on "The Education of the Will," by the famous French scientist, Jules Payot. Although this work has run through thirty editions, and has been translated into many foreign languages, this is the first translation into English. It is by Smith Ely Jelliffe, M.D. "The Education of the Will" is a scientific yet popular work giving valuable suggestions and exercises for a judicious training of the will. "L' éducation de la Volonte" is the name of the original work in French, and "The Education of the Will" is a literal translation of that famous book. The present translation bears no relation to another work in English having the same title but drawn from another source. "The Education of the Will" is both theoretical and practical and promises to have a wide number of readers in the medical profession, and to prove of vital interest to every one interested in psychology and mental therapeutics. They have also just ready the fifth volume of the "New Schaff-Herzog Encyclopedia of Religious Knowledge."

THE PENN PUBLISHING COMPANY, as usual, have made generous provision this season of books for young people that will not only fill a demand for the coming holiday season, but promise to be in demand for the seasons of many years to come. Among the new titles are some old friends by familiar writers. "Betty Wales," Margaret Warde's creation, whom her many friends have followed through college, appears in "Betty Wales & Co.," a firm that opens a college tea shop which becomes popular and prosperous. Captain Paul B. Malone, U. S. A., presents his hero, "A West Point Cadet," in his last year at the famous Military Academy, winning football honors and a relay race, leading a superb cavalry charge, saving a child and graduating. In "A Junior in Line" T. Truxton Hare again shows how the hero, Bob Walters, by sheer force of the character and common sense he displayed in two previous stories succeeds in athletics as elsewhere. There are stirring football games and field sports. The book touches nearly all sides of college life. "Felicia's Friends," by Elizabeth Lincoln Gould, continues the unusual record of child life in a country town, in which two winsome girls, while having a good time themselves, manage to bring good times to all those with whom they come into contact. To those interested in life on board ship "An Annapolis Second Classman," by Lieutenant Commander Edward L. Beach, U. S. N., and "A United States Midshipman in China," by Lieutenant Commander Yates Stirling, Jr., will have special attractions. Commander Beach gives an uncommonly spirited description of the life of midshipmen at Annapolis with a dash of adventure dealing with the discovery of a plot against the United States government. Commander Stirling's book describes how two midshipmen on a gun-boat help to thwart an attack on an American mission in China. "The School Team in Camp," by John Prescott Earl, is a jolly outdoor story, in which a football team indulge in a canoe race, a baseball game and other sports. Alice Turner Curtis tells in her charming way many of the further doings of "Grandpa's Little Girls and their Friends," and John P. Edmison in the book entitled "Stories from the Norseland," retells the old Norse legends in a fresh and vigorous style that will attract old as well as young readers. Among the new series brought out this year are the Little Princess Series, for which Aileen Cleveland Higgins has written "A Little Princess of Tonopah," in which she describes the fortunes of a New England family in a Nevada mining camp; the Glenloch Series, introduced by a story entitled "Glenloch Girls," by Grace M. Remick, in which the characters are high school boys and girls of good family, who take their fun and work in the happy and hearty way of American young people; also, the Young Continental Series, by John T. McIntyre, who in "Young Continentals at Lexington" describes the frustration of a Tory plot to seize General Washington. Last, but by no means unimportant, is Annie M. Barnes's story of the siege of Quebec, entitled "A Little Lady at the Fall of Quebec." Nearly all these books carry illustrations, and their exterior get-up, in every instance, is befitting their literary quality.

TERMS OF ADVERTISING.

Under the heading "Books Wanted" book-trade subscribers, under their own names, are given the privilege of a free advertisement for books out of print of five nonpareil lines, exclusive of address, in any issue except special numbers to an extent not exceeding 100 lines a year. If more than five lines are sent the excess is at 10 cents a line, and amount should be inclosed. Bids for current books and such as may be easily had from the publishers, and repeated matter, as well as all advertisements from non-subscribers, or those advertising anonymously, must be paid for at the rate of 10 cents a line. All objectionable books will be excluded so far as they come under our notice.

Under the heading "Books for Sale," the charge to subscribers and non-subscribers is 10 cents a nonpareil line for each insertion. No reduction for repeated matter.

All other small undisplayed advertisements will be charged at the uniform rate of 10 cents a nonpareil line. Eight words may be reckoned to the line.

Parties with whom we have no account must pay in advance, otherwise no notice will be taken of their Communications.

BOOKS WANTED.

☞ In answering, please state edition, condition, and price, including postage or express charges.

Houses that are willing to deal exclusively on a cash-on-delivery basis will find it to their advantage to put after their firm-name the word [Cash.]

☞ Write your wants plainly, and on one side of the sheet only. Illegibly-written "wants" will be considered as not having been received. The "Publishers' Weekly" does not hold itself responsible for errors.

It should be understood that the appearance of advertisements in this column, or elsewhere in the "Publishers' Weekly," does not furnish a guarantee of credit. While it is endeavored to safeguard these columns by withdrawing the privilege of their use from advertisers who are not "good pay" booksellers should take the usual precautions, as to advertisers not known to them, that they would take in making sales to any unknown parties.

CUSTOMERS THAT BUY

How to Gather Them In

BOOKSELLERS are naturally interested in methods of attracting buyers—ways of holding the old ones, means of securing new ones—especially during the holiday season.

An outlay of ten, twenty, or even fifty dollars, is not a very large sum to spend in order to attract the attention of the best buyers to your display. The money might easily be wasted in ineffective local advertising or in pithless circulars, but it can be used to the greatest direct advantage by sending the "CHRISTMAS BOOKSHELF" (a digest of all the important new books of the year of the leading publishers) with your exclusive imprint on the cover, to the people of means and position in your vicinity. It is by far the best holiday list that is issued anywhere, and the recipient always feels flattered in receiving a copy.

THE CHRISTMAS BOOKSHELF (which is the Christmas Number of The Publishers' Weekly on somewhat thinner paper) is supplied in lots of 100 at 10 cents each; 250 at 8 cents; 500 for $38.00; or 1000 for $75.00.

☞ If you want a supply we must hear from you promptly as we print only for advance orders. We can promise delivery by the end of November.

Whitaker's Reference Catalogue 1910

THE British equivalent of the American "Publishers' Trade List Annual" is issued once every four years, with a complete index to the contents of the various catalogues included. The next issue is promised in March, 1910.

The publishers have decided to bind up the index as a separate volume, thus making the set three volumes instead of two as heretofore.

We solicit orders from libraries at $5.00 for the set, which is the London price, duty free, plus the carriage to New York.
